

SHOULD STUDENTS NEED LIMITED ACCESS OF INTERNET

The Internet is one of the prime needs of today's world. The Internet is where we can find information about everything under the sky. It is the most needed thing around the globe. Businessmen, teachers, traders, students, everyone is dependent on the internet for their work. If we talk about students, there are many uses of the internet in a student's life. e-tutorials, college projects, exam preparations any many more activities can be done on the internet which can help students in their studies.

They spend the maximum part of their day on the internet and hardly have any interactions with their family members. This leads to weak family bonds. The overuse of the internet is physical harm for students. Students are the future of this world and they must stay healthy to focus on their studies and become responsible citizens on this earth. With the excess of the internet, we can see many students spending hours in front of their computer screens. A student needs to have a social life, make friends, and have face-to-face interactions but due to the overuse of the internet, these interactions have been lost somewhere. The students getting excess of the internet can lead to cheating. The fact that the internet has all the information can be used negatively by the students.

There is nothing more important than saving the students from getting lured by frauds, cheating, and getting addicted to pornography. They need to have a normal physical and social life. Most importantly, students should focus on their studies rather than anything else. All this can be achieved only by reducing the internet access for the students. Although the internet is a very useful thing there are many harms also. It is better to allow students to use the internet for a limited time only so they do not get time for any useless online activity. The school is the best place for the students to learn, there is no need to search for every small thing to search on the internet.
